Socialists Barred From City Hall

COUNCIL OPPOSES AGITATORS

Alderman Badger Wins Fight To Allow Carnival To Show
On Streets.

Permission to use the assembly room at the city hall for a workingmen's mass meeting at which J. H. Pautz, Milwaukee, and Glenn P. Turner, Madison, were scheduled to speak, was refused by the city fathers at their meeting last evening. It was agreed that the assembly room would be open at all times for mass meetings if the speakers were to be Janesville residents.

Alderman Emil Pautz started the action when he moved that the request for the use of the hall be disallowed. "I do not think the city hall is a proper place for speakers who make a profession of disseminating socialist propaganda," said Alderman Pautz. He said he wanted it thoroughly understood by all that he was in favor of unions, but he was not in favor of bringing a socialist here to talk.

"I have been a union man for 35 years and there is not a man in the city of Janesville who would do more for any union than I would, but I am strongly opposed to these outside speakers," Alderman Pautz said. He said he would go any place at any time with the unions of this city, but he would not consent to bringing socialists here to spread their propaganda. "My sympathy is with the working men and always has been," Alderman Pautz said, "but I think that the little difficulties in Janesville can be settled and I am sure that there are plenty of men here big enough to settle the dispute without engaging outside speakers."

Alderman Dulin then moved that Phil Sullivan, secretary of the Janesville Federation of Labor, be notified that the hall was at their disposal if local men were to speak. He also proposed that police officers attend the meeting this evening to talk to close the hall.

When the meeting opened last evening all the aldermen were present with the exception of Leroy Horn, who was out of the city. A petition was presented by City Clerk Victor Fleming from property owners on Glenn street asking that the street be closed to traffic between the fifth and sixth streets with oil at the expense of the property owners.

YANKS WAIT AND WATCH ON RHINE

OFFICIALS OF THIRD ARMY NOT NOTIFIED OF NEW GOVERNMENT.

RHENISH REPUBLIC ASKS RECOGNITION

Allied Leaders Steer Safe
Course; Keep Territories Protected.

BULLETIN
Berlin, June 3.—The German government has issued an order for the arrest of Dr. Dornen, the president of the new Rhenish republic, the North German Gazette announced.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Coblenz, Monday, June 3.—Telegrams intimating that recognition of the Rhenish republic reported to have been established Sunday is desired, have been sent to commanders of the army of occupation along the Rhine. They bear the signature of Dr. Dornen, said to have been named president of the new republic, but the officials of the American third army have not received any official notification of any such action by the new government.

Dr. Dornen asserts that delegates of Prussia, Old Nassau, Rhenish Hesse and the Palatinate after meetings in Aix-la-Chapelle, Mayence and Weisbaden, had declared the autonomy of the Rhenish republic from Bonn. After declaring that the Rhenish republic is willing to conclude immediate peace, the telegram states that the people of the Rhineland have no desire to escape their obligations as far as recognition is concerned, but that they are seeking recognition at the peace conference. The identity of Dr. Dornen is unknown to Americans here.

Yanks Maintain Order.
The Americans are co-operating with the British and have adopted a policy of maintaining public order and taking any action necessary against demonstration of any order within the occupied areas. No orders to the contrary had been received from General Pershing's headquarters at Chaumont or from Paris regarding the American policy toward the movement for the establishment of a Rhenish republic. The facts regarding arrangements to launch the republic are in the hands of the British and American authorities but the details are so complicated that the officers have decided to steer a safe course and see that within their areas their authority is respected from all sides. They hold that they have the right only to regulate affairs and maintain order.

The Americans say there are no indications that the Germans generally desire a republic and attribute the movement to a handful of imprudent agitators. They are unwilling to permit the American area to become a battleground for rival factions.

Not High Treason Offense.
The American authorities decided today that there was no foundation for a charge of high treason against individuals who are unwilling to permit the Rhenish republic. The premises of the movement were warned they would be guilty of high treason if the republic should be established. The Americans contend that this is an attempted interference on the part of Berlin, and in a question of this kind, an evasion of the rights of the occupying army, which is in complete control of all affairs here.

MASS MEETING HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

Phil Sullivan, secretary of the Janesville Federation of Labor, announced today that owing to the refusal of the common council to grant a permit for the use of the assembly room at the city hall for the workingmen's mass meeting tonight, the meeting will be postponed.

"We have delegated one of our members to rent a hall and the big meeting will be held in a short time," Mr. Sullivan said.

SUPERVISORS FAVOR BUILDING 40 MILES OF ROAD NEXT YEAR

It was voted late this afternoon to build the Beloit-Clinton, Janesville-Edgerton and Janesville-Evansville roads in 1920.

Rock county's concrete road building program for 1920 will be adopted sometime this afternoon by the board of supervisors meeting in special session at the county house.

The highway committee's recommendations that the 1920 program consist of building only the Edgerton-Janesville road involved considerable discussion. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that the program was entirely too small and that the Evansville-Janesville and Beloit-Clinton roads should be included.

Supervisor H. B. Moseley, chairman of the committee, withdrew the report at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon and retired to work out a larger program to be submitted later in the day.

Action on the county sanatorium site question was also expected to be taken late today. A special committee from the Rock County Medical association charged with the task of selecting a site for the sanatorium was expected to report.

Dr. M. A. Cunningham, Janesville, addressed the board on the sanatorium question this afternoon.

The board transacted several items of business when the session was called this morning, the most important of which was the delaying of further action on the county nurse question until the November meeting. There was no discussion.

It was moved to refer the matter of hiring Judge H. L. Maxwell's clerk to S. G. Dunwiddie, district attorney, for a ruling.

An appropriation of $300 to Richard Batterman, county surveyor to be used in perfecting a survey of the county, was voted.

The sum of $559.10 was appropriated to the funds committee to cover the existing deficiency.

Upon motion of Supervisor McGowan the highway committee was instructed to prepare the 1920 road building program.

Supervisor Perrigo recommended that C. E. Moore, county highway commissioner take steps to see that landmarks marking the corners of sections were not destroyed in road building in the future.

AUSTRIAN REPUBLIC IS EXPLAINED

"PEOPLE WAITED FOR THIS DAY"

Danube Monarchy Ceased To Exist Nov. 12, Says
Chairman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Germain, Monday, June 3.—Upon receiving the treaty from the allies here today, Dr. Karl Renner, chairman of the Austrian delegation, outlined briefly the establishment of the German-Austrian republic and declared it had no relation with the former Hapsburg empire. He said:

"For a long time the people of German-Austria were waiting in distress for this present day to come, which shall relieve the tension caused by the uncertainty as to that people's future state. We were longing for the hour of decision, because it was to render peace to our hard-pressed country and to offer us an opportunity to proclaim before this illustrious tribunal, the world's highest authority, what our country is and what the conditions are under which we may hope to organize the possibilities for the existence of an independent commonwealth."

Monarchy Did Not End.
"The Danube monarchy against which the allies and associated powers have waged war and with which they have concluded an armistice, has ceased to exist. The twelfth of November at 1918, may be considered the day of its death. From this day on there was no monarch anymore, nor a big power over which he could hold his sway. There was no more the dualism, neither an Austrian or a Hungarian government, no army or any other recognized institution vested with public power."

Renner explained only eight nationalities deprived of any public organization, and overnight they created their own parliaments, their own governments and their own armies. "In the same way as the other national states our new republic too, has sprung into life. Consequently she can no longer be considered a mere puppet of the late monarchy. From this very point arises the fundamental contradiction under which we are laboring the most and which is awaiting to be cleared before this high assembly."

Bears Burden of Others.
"On the one hand no one could, from the judicious statement recently proclaimed by the chairman of this conference, reason that a modification of the political form of government or a change of its leading persons would suffice to release a nation from assumed obligations. This entails the conclusion that all the territories of the ancient monarchy are responsible for the consequences of the war, which was forced upon them all by their former governments."

"Thus in weighing upon us, as upon all the other nationalities established on the territory of the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy, a portion of the dreadful inheritance left us by the fallen empire, the inheritance of war, the inheritance of exhaustion and the inheritance of the more cumbersome economic obligations."

"But the new republic has freed herself of all these economic obligations which have become so fatal to the existence of the ancient monarchy. She has rid herself once and forever of all the reactionary traditions which had turned the former monarchy into a prison for its people. She is, alas, the unfortunate victim of that horrible crime of 1914—a crime committed by the former government however, and not by the people."

Never Declared War.
"On the other hand all the succeeding states have in the light of international law come into existence after the cessation of hostilities only. The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war."

"The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war. The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war."

"The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war. The German-Austrian republic, in its present shape, has never declared war."

HIGHER RAILROAD RATES PREDICTED BY DIR. GEN. HINES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 3.—Only by increased rates can the government controlled railroads meet operating expenses, Director General Hines, of the railroad administration, today told the house appropriations committee. He is opposed to any increase at this time, however, because it might advance the cost of necessities of life.

Mr. Hines who appeared to ask for $1,200,000,000 additional for the railroad administration's revolving fund for the remainder of this calendar year, declared that while wages of railroad employees had been increased 51 to 52 percent, during government control, they now were only "reasonable and fair." He added that he could see no prospect of reducing them.

Says Money Circulating in South Greatest in Its History

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]
Atlanta, Ga., June 3.—"The entire country is now in an era of big business," A. B. Sims, vice president of the Fulton National bank, stated recently. "There is more money in circulation than ever before in the history of the south," he stated. "The confidence of the business men in the financial situation of the country inspires the greatest era of prosperity in our history."

The deposits of the Fulton National, Mr. Sims said, had increased by more than $1,250,000 during the past year. The present price of cotton, said he, has caused a great deal of money to be placed in circulation. While a great many farmers are still holding the product, others are selling at the average price of 30 cents a pound.

ANARCHIST IS BEING IDENTIFIED

PALMER ESCAPED DEATH
BY ATTACKER STUBBING TOE.

PUBLIC MEN ARE BEING GUARDED

Precautions Taken To Prevent
Furtherance Of "Red"
Outrages.

BULLETIN

Washington, June 3.—The bomb outrages were denounced in the senate and drastic legislation was urged. The senate halted consideration of the woman suffrage resolution and other business while Senator Walsh, democratic, Montana, who has had charge of directing anti-anarchist bills, called the state's attention to the explosions.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 3.—Washington police inspectors early today believed they had identified the man who was blown to pieces last night in an effort to kill Attorney-General Mitchell Palmer with a bomb as an anarchist of Philadelphia. They also said they were confident the nation-wide plot against the lives of government officials and prominent business men had been laid in that city.

A blood-stained conductor's identification check, found in front of Mr. Palmer's residence, showed that the anarchist arrived in Washington at 10:30 o'clock last night from Philadelphia. He went directly to the Palmer home and only a few minutes before the explosion he was seen alighting from a street car a few blocks away by C. S. Briggs, Marlon, South Carolina.

The police would not reveal the identity of the man.

The anarchist apparently was of Italian parentage. Included in the heap of tattered, scorched, blood-stained fragments of clothing and articles belonging to the man was seen a much-thumbed copy of an American dictionary.

Not Remains Intact.
A stranger freak of the explosion the man's hat remained intact. On the sweatband was inscribed the name of "The Lovers Brothers, Hatters, 919 South Eighth Street, Philadelphia." It was at first thought that two men had been killed by the explosion, because parts of two legs were found where they had been blown.

The neighborhood in which the explosion occurred is one of the most fashionable in Washington. It is a few blocks away from Senator Swanson of Virginia. Directly opposite lives Rear Admiral Theodore F. Jewell. The home of Helmer H. Bryn, Norwegian minister, and assistant secretary of the navy Franklin D. Roosevelt lives a short distance away.

Residences in the entire block were damaged by the explosion. Windows were shattered and the fronts of some of the houses were nicked by pieces of flying concrete. Parts of the anarchist were blown through some of the windows.

Several occupants of the nearby houses, including the son of the Norwegian minister, were thrown from their beds by the force of the explosion.

Additional precautions were taken by the police to safeguard public men in Washington.

Another Anarchist Move.

Widespread bomb explosions last night were believed to be another move in anarchist effort for the overthrow of organized government in the United States.

Evidence that the plot was carefully planned was obtained in a pamphlet found at the home of Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, giving warning that "a time has come when the social question solution can be laid no longer; class war is on and must cease, but with a complete victory for the international proletariat."

Pamphlet Gives Signal.
The pamphlet, one of a large number scattered about after the explosion, was apparently exploded and blew to bits the author of the crime, was signed, "the anarchistic fighters" and undoubtedly was intended as a signal to show the reign of terrorism was on.

Copies of the pamphlet, bearing the caption "plain talk" are in possession of officers and may possibly furnish the only clue to the identity of the plotters. The full list of cities in which explosions occurred were New York, Washington, Cleveland, Pittsburgh 2, Philadelphia 2, Boston, Paterson and Newtonville, Mass.

Following so closely the outrages of last night the anarchist outbreak last night is expected to hasten action of bills now before congress dealing with suppression of anarchism and deporting dangerous aliens.

15 Maxwell Trucks Ran 109,700
Miles at a Total Repair
Cost of $313.07

THESE are figures taken from owners' books. 10,000 owners of Maxwell trucks have been asked to send us their operating costs. The first fifteen received contained these amazing figures—109,700 miles at a repair cost of $313.07.

Three of these Maxwells turned 60,000 miles at a repair cost of $150. A fourth ran 5500 miles at a repair cost of 25 cents. A fifth, 5000 miles at a repair cost of $1.

Another, 7000 miles and the expense of keeping it on the road was $2.50.

All told, the repair cost was just .002 plus per mile! And by repairs we mean the total for parts and labor.

So obvious, so well known has become the economy of Maxwell trucks in regard to gas, oil, and tires, that it is no longer an item of news.

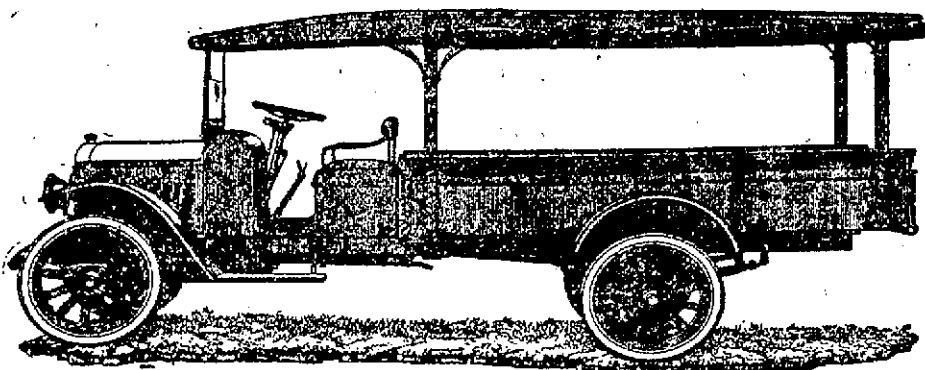

15, 16, even 20 miles to the gallon on gas, and 200 miles to the gallon of oil, or 8,000, 9,000 and 10,000 miles to a tire is a matter of common occurrence.

But the main point about a Maxwell truck is this: it runs on, and on and never quits going.

It is efficient.

It's a great money earner because it's a great money saver. Many Maxwells pay back their cost in a year's time.

Price for chassis $1085 f. o. b. Detroit.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, June 3, 1879.—Mrs. Kate McKinnon and Miss Mattie McCullough have formed a partnership for dress making and millinery business, and have located next to VanKirk's grocery store on South Main street. Miss Maggie McKinnon has gone to Chicago to purchase goods for the new firm, and she will continue with them in the millinery department.

Harry Quinn has been chosen director of the Catholic Temperance Band. Mr. S. Kent has resigned from the directorship.

Edward Angio had one of his arms badly mangled in the machinery of the Rock river paper mill, in Beloit. The secretary of the Rock County Agricultural society has received a letter from Congressman Charles G. Williams, accepting the invitation to be present at the coming fair, and make an address on the Fourth of July. This will be glad tidings to all of our citizens, as they always are eager to hear him talk.

M. Dexter Tracy who travels for S. L. Sheldon & Co., has returned from a long trip in the northwest and is spending a week in the city.

Cannon's new block will soon be completed and ready for renting by July 1.

It is regretted that no baseball grounds can be secured here on such terms as would warrant the clubs in getting games. The Omaha club would gladly come here to play next Friday, but their offer had to be declined.

Emil Oberhoffer is the director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and is America's greatest orchestral conductor. Every member of this organization is an artist of the first rank. One of the greatest of musical events is the visit of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, for there are patrons of music in plenty, who consider this body of players unsurpassed by any ever heard, and there are still many more to find in the work of Emil Oberhoffer, the director, a vitality, buoyancy, and originality of style which are not equalled by any other conductors before the American public.

This orchestra will play in Beloit, under the auspices of the Treble Clef, Friday, matinee and evening. Tickets may be obtained at the Myers theatre or of Miss Clara Shawvan, local representative.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD"

A BEAUTIFUL STORY
D. W. Griffith's famed picture now playing at the Apollo is full of delightful situations, acted by noted stars. Several of the stars and favorites who helped to make "The Birth of a Nation" and "Intolerance" the greatest successes of their time, are now seen again in "Hearts of the World," which is considered by Mr. Griffith's severest critics to be his supreme triumph up to the present time.

They are, Lillian Gish, Robert Harron, George Seigney and Josephine Crowell. Dorothy Gish who plays the part of "the little disturber" in "Hearts of the World" and furnishes the most lively bit of comedy in the production, has carried columns of praise from the newspapers for her part.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been married and have two children less than four years old. My husband works every day and makes pretty good money and is good in every way, but still there is trouble. My husband has two daughters by a former marriage and they live with us. There is just a few years' difference in our ages. They tell me this is their home as much as mine and if they didn't do the work it would never be done, and all sorts of things that are mean. They are both of age and working, but they do not pay a cent of board. They spend money for clothes and to have good time.

I do all my own work and also keep a roomer and brother and spend all of my money for the children and the house, trying to make ends meet. We have had much sickness this winter and are considerably in debt. All I have had this spring is a five dollar hat.

I loved my husband dearly at first, but he let the girls talk and do as they please regardless of me until I am beginning to love him less. They have relatives who would like to have them, but they would have to pay a little board.

I have no one to go to live with or I would go. I have thought of getting work, but do not think I could make enough to keep us and hire someone to care for the children.

Could the girls be made to pay a little board? I leave, as talking to my husband does no good? Should I consult a lawyer? UNHAPPY.

Your husband is very unjust. He is making as much as he and since his daughters are of age they have no claim in it unless you choose to let them stay.

Your husband ought to see that you are wearing yourself out with so much work, and inharmonious. He is not fulfilling his duty as a husband and a father by letting the present conditions exist.

Talk to him, once again and if he refuses to ask the girls to leave or to uphold you if you make the demand, some definite action should be taken.

I believe you could turn the tables if you absolutely gave up and went to bed sick. Refuse to get up and resume your duties until the girls are out of the house. Doubtless you are weary enough for the rest to do you a world of good.

If every course fails, consult a lawyer and have him present your case to your husband.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am married and have three children. My husband the last year has told me several little things that are not true and I do not know why he should.

(1) He accuses me of being with other men, but it is not true. I am in very poor health and do not go anywhere except to step out to a neighbor's house. Then he sends the children looking for me.

He joined a lodge a year ago. They have picnics and dances. I asked him to take me and he said he was not allowed to. But there were other ladies there and I overheard that he took another lady and passed her off as his wife.

What would be the result if the order knew she was not his wife? He says that I ought to be satisfied to have him belong to something that protects the children and me. I don't feel that I want the protection of such an order.

(2) If the lodge were giving a ball and my husband was there, would I be allowed to go in without him, and could he have me put out of the hall as long as I do not disturb anyone? I don't want to put myself where I am not wanted, but I don't want some one else posing as me.

MRS. T. (1) If you let other lodge members know that he is passing another woman as his wife they will report the case to the officials of the lodge. The officials will appoint a committee to investigate the case. Your husband will either have to leave the lodge or be punished as they see fit.

(2) Naturally the lodge will not give dances without inviting ladies. At such a time it will be safe to go. Because without a doubt you will be admitted without being questioned. I would advise you to go, in fact, go up to your husband right in the lodge and talk to him. He will realize that unless he does the right thing he will be punished according to the by-laws of the lodge.

SUMMER TUB FROCK FOR KITCHEN WEAR

Crisp and clean looking is this black and white striped percale house dress. Its little frills and daintiness which is not out of place on a summer tub frock. The woman who does her own housework will like it because it launders beautifully.

Students Still Discuss "Morning Glories" Visit

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.] Cambridge, Mass., June 3.—Harvard students are still discussing their glimpse of the first three "morning glories" of spring that "blossomed" so suddenly and radiantly in Harvard square.

The "glories" were of the eternal feminine. They were "rubettes". The way from Arlington Heights and came down to Cambridge by auto for an ice cream. Each had on a light fitting pair of overalls, and their appearance made a decided sensation.

The soda fountain which they visited soon resembled a rural town on a busy afternoon, and the girls, after refusing to let one admirer set 'em up, started their flivver for down on the farm.

For so-called crab lice, clip the hair, and use the kerosene and vinegar as above. Or apply an ointment of yellow oxide of mercury to parts in vaseline 20 parts.

Stir to a cream, add one pint boiling water, let boil five minutes, flavor with one teaspoon vanilla.

Pastry Pudding—Here is a frozen dessert that tastes as though it were made of rich materials, yet is an ideal dish to serve after a "heavy" meal. Dissolve one cup of sugar in a pint of milk. Beat and then cool. Gradually add the juice of two lemons. Then add three large canned peaches and a banana which has been chopped into very fine pieces. Freeze as you would any other frozen dessert.

The Daily Novelette

The Slueth and the Whistle.
The woman with the lace lizzio veil spoke first.

"Is this Mr. Beerluck Bones, the great detective?" replied that dignitary, coming what indignantly, and he flicked several cigar ashes on her mittens for spite.

"What's wrong with your husband?" asked the great detective.

"Husband? Why, how did you—?" "How did I know you had a husband? Ah, madam, now you are asking for subtle slauht secrets," replied the great detective, involuntarily gazing at the card she had handed him with Mrs. Horace Wiffle-Wass on.

"You are marvelous, Mr. Bones. There is something wrong with my husband. He has locked himself up in the attic of our home, barricaded the door and he is making the queerest sounds imaginable. He has been in there for two days now," said Mrs. Wiffle-Wass.

"What do the sounds sound like?" asked the great detective.

"I don't know, Mr. Bones. That's the mysterious part of it. I never heard anything exactly like them before, although it seems to me that when I was a child, I did hear something that resembled—"

"A-ha! I scent the mystery!" cried the great detective, as he sniffs the air like a dog after a scent. "Lead me to your husband, madam."

When they arrived at the door of the attic, the great detective put his penetrating squelchons glass at the keyhole, placed his 1919 movie-camera in back of the glass, and made ten thousand feet of Horace Wiffle-Wass's movements.

Eagerly Mrs. Wiffle-Wass watched the great man's wonderful processes he put the film through.

"Now, madam," he explained, as he took the film and dissolved it through a quailopis glass cylinder, "what your husband is doing will be written on this cylinder in a language which I will translate for you."

"Ah, madam! This is terrible! I never thought it was as bad as this!" said the great detective as he read and wiped beads of perspiration from his brow. "Quick! Give me the twenty-five!"

Madam, he said, pocketing the money. "Your husband is practicing how to say 'Punch, where's the baby?' on a Punch and Judy whistle that he bought on the street from a vendor for five cents. (I know, I saw him do it.) With a violent snort of anger, Mrs. Wiffle-Wass flew out of the room and banged the door a mighty bam.

Found Road to Happiness.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

BY ZOE BECKLEY

THE SETTLEMENT.
The Settlement House consisted of two reconstructed old-fashioned, comfortable brownstone dwelling in the midst of a seething tenement district east of the Bowery. At the entrance of one of the basement doors was a neat white sign, "Mother's Club. Meetings from 7 to 9 p. m. Free. Welcome." At the other, were two placards: "Kindergarten" and "Nurses' Department. Free Advice."

Annie decided the stoop entrance was the one for her. The door was unfastened. She opened it and found herself in a reception hall from which opened a number of brightly furnished rooms. Her first impression was of unbelievable spaciousness and cleanliness.

Annie drew a long breath and looked into the big room. She got a quick picture of gray-bule walls and hangings, and golden lamplight glowing upon a long table, at which girls were reading. Without examining the furnishings in detail, she knew the quality of everything. She knew that the pictures hanging in discreet spaces were good pictures, well framed. That the table and chairs and bookcases were of a certain artistic rightness, though very plain. All was quiet, orderly, warm and handsome. So much so that Annie felt vaguely uncomfortable and afraid.

As she stood hesitating in the doorway a woman came into the room from an opposite door and walked toward Annie with an inquiring smile. "Are you new?" she asked before she noticed her face.

"Yes, an expensive blouse of soft silk, well fitted and immaculate. Annie appraised it to be of the $30.00 dozen type. Her firm didn't make that line."

"Why, that is Jones," said Burke. Thereupon he went out and arrested John Jones. Jones denied he had anything to do with the affair. "Isn't that your picture?" asked Burke, showing the proof, as the photographer said.

"It isn't," said Jones. And Burke isn't certain.

San Francisco, June 3.—Plain Detective Michael Burke got the reputation by an accident of being THE detective of the department.

John Jones was locked up in the city prison on a charge of petty larceny, also by an accident, as he claims. Burke is what they call a camera fiend. His camera got broken. He took it to an expert to have it fixed. A thief got into the place the next night and stole a number of articles, including Burke's camera.

The thief looked the loot over and saw Burke's name on the camera. Of course he got frightened. He threw away the camera in excitement.

That is important, because in his excitement the thief snapped the shutter and took a picture of himself on a raw film.

The camera was picked up the next morning and turned over to the police. Burke got hold of it. He developed the film. And lo, there was the picture of a man.

HEALTH TALKS

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

SPRING AND THE BLOOD.

The call of the blood in the spring is for greens, and dandelion greens are fine.

Mrs. J. W. writes: "A man who works in the office takes a month off every spring to mend his health. Although his salary is small, he believes it pays. He maintains that by eating dandelion greens, taking long walks, eating dandelions raw and cooked as long as they last, he gains much health. Is there any merit in eating dandelions, or does they make more and better blood?"

W. S. M. writes: "I am very fond of greens but never see anything in your column about them. An eminent physician who was at one time in the U. S. Pure Food department says they have no food value except their mineral content. I should be pleased to have your opinion."

Miss R. A. writes: "I believe one's diet is largely responsible for the state of one's health. Will you please publish the medicinal or beneficial qualities of greens in the diet? I greatly enjoy reading your column, and have a scrapbook nearly filled with clippings."

All greens contain considerable amounts of the most readily assimilable form of iron—chlorophyll—which, indeed, in my opinion, is the most valuable form of iron an invalid can take medicinally.

Greens furnish also considerable indigestible residue of cellulose or woody fiber, which is a natural stimulus to the digestive functions and the peristaltic movements of the bowels. This laxative effect is perhaps the reason why the old timers considered dandelion and other greens "purifiers" of the blood. People who seek with information in magazines and postum literature to imagine that a physician has some influence on the blood, which is, of course, not true. Take that venerable springtime institution, sulphur and molasses. In this combination administered all around to purify the blood, the molasses is a good, wholesome laxative food; the sulphur is a laxative—nothing more.

But dandelion and other greens are valuable for a reason which we cannot yet clearly explain, though we are getting warm. Greens and leafy vegetables contain vitamins, which are essential for normal nutrition and growth. There is no doubt that in times past, and in some sections of the country at the present time, the diet in the winter months is poor in vitamin content, and various disturbances of health are attributable to a deficiency diet, a diet deficient in vitamins. Fresh milk, fresh butter, liver fat, the greens, all are rich in vitamins; these items are often reduced to a minimum absent from the diet in the winter, some parts of the country.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Diagnosing the Late Prof. Metchnikoff. A firm exhibiting a creamery by-product, buttermilk, sends a pamphlet, which appears this statement: "It has been studied the diet of the Balkan people. Metchnikoff discovered they drank and used great quantities of sour milk. This sour milk contained a certain type of lactic-acid bacteria (common to all sour milk). These bacteria when introduced into the human system tend to correct many of the ailments of the body. Any physician will tell you that the per cent of the ailments human flesh is heir to arise from the digestive tract; they are generally caused by auto-intoxication, or poisoning. Auto-intoxication is the result of the work of putrefactive bacteria that feed upon the waste matter in the large intestine. These bacteria throw off certain poisons which are absorbed by the blood. These poisons caused practically all the sickness in the world. Now, the Metchnikoff idea was to eat out the bacteria against the other—a case of 'dog eat dog.' The bacteria in sour milk killed off the putrefactive bacteria. Would you subscribe to that statement?" (C. N. R.)

ANSWER.—Not seriously. Nor would Prof. Metchnikoff, if he were alive today. In fact Metchnikoff himself warned that "sour raw milk must be rejected. It contains a large assortment of microbes, and frequently some of these are harmful. Metchnikoff wrote that lactic acid microbes certainly prevent the multiplication of other microbes, but are incapable of destroying them." What Prof. Metchnikoff really advocated was that about one pint of skimmed milk be boiled five minutes, cooled to about body warmth and added to a culture of the type of lactic acid bacilli known as Bulgarian bacilli. Let it ferment a number of hours. A sour, curdled milk, pleasant to the taste, is produced.

DICE OF DESTINY

By JACKSON GREGORY

"By Heaven!" muttered Stanway half aloud, "he's a man anyway!" He whistled and went out, calling his last short orders savagely. Gaucho was already at the patio, calling that the horses were ready, that several of the men had already ridden southward after the hammering hoofbeats. Stanway flung himself into the saddle, teeth set, face white, heart pounding madly.

Then he and Gaucho raced away upon the second invasion of a land at where the coyote hunted. And at night they came back, worn out by the merciless grind of the day upon spent horses whose legs trembled pitifully under them. And they had found what they found before—nothing.

Stanway did not stop to eat or to rest. He drank thirstily at the leaping fountain in the patio, and went immediately to the house and to the room which was now an improvised hospital ward for the accommodation of Pedro and Celestino.

He found Pedro conscious, very white and weak from the blood which he had lost. A doctor had come from La Pampa and had gone, leaving his simple directions and simpler medicines.

Pedro would live.

Here a knife had hit deep and had cut Pedro much blood, but by fortune and a fraction of an inch on vital point had been reached.

Celestino, as white and more weak than Pedro, lay very still, not having once regained consciousness. He might live, for Celestino had a wonderful store of health and vitality in that great frame of his. The doctor would come again, tonight or early tomorrow.

"Pedro," asked Stanway, with a quick glance at the other bed and then coming to Pedro's side, "how are things with you?"

"Not so bad, señor," Pedro answered faintly. "The senorita?"

"We have not found her yet," Stanway admitted regretfully. "But we shall find her soon, Pedro. Did you see the men who attacked you? Do you know where they came from? We had sentries out all night. They swore that no men came from across the border."

Pedro shook his head.

"I was asleep, señor. Then I heard Celestino call out. I thought he was dreaming. I sat up, half asleep, you know, señor. Then I saw. There were three men, I think. Perhaps four. I don't know. One struck poor Celestino as he sat up, and another sprang at him. But then they were upon me too, and I heard the senorita cry out, and they struck me over the head and put a knife into me here."

"And then they rushed into the senorita's room?"

"It is so hard to know what happened, señor. I don't think that they went into the senorita's room. When I woke my eyes went first to her door. It is always the first thing which I see when I wake. It was closed."

"I think that it was locked. I tell you I heard her call out while Celestino was being struck, before they made everything go black for me. There were other men in there."

"I suppose they came through the balcony. But these men—where did they go? How did they come in?"

His voice sank to a trembling whisper. "Senor, can it be that some of the servants are traitors? That they have let these men in and let them go?"

"That is what I have been thinking all day, Pedro. But you mustn't talk too much this time. I'll come to see you again."

"Wait a minute, señor. There is one other thing."

Stanway came back swiftly.

"What is it?" he demanded sharply, seeing a light in Pedro's eyes which had not been in them before.

"It is something which I found. It fell from the hand of one of the men when Celestino struck back at him. I had them bring it to me here. I have not talked about it; I have waited for you."

His hand was fumbling under his blanket, and he brought a key, very heavy and old, made rudely of iron and, like the old keys of the mission days, some eight inches long.

"I am not sure," Pedro whispered, his eyes feverishly bright. "You can tell. Call for Josefa. She cares for the senor's rooms. Have her go there with you. Let her see if anything is missing. She will know; she has

THE WISHING PLANE

BY WILLIS WINTER

Prince Charles stepped into the passageway which had been hidden behind the painting and started to climb the steps. Jack and Jane and their friends followed. It was pitch dark in the stairway, and not much lighter when Jack and Jane reached the bottom of the stairs and found themselves in the cellar of the house. Prince Charles led the way around behind the stairs and into another dark passageway.

All colored this for what seemed to Jack and Jane to be hours. The children finally heard Prince Charles, who was ahead of them, unbarring a door, and presently he swung it open. Jack and Jane were amazed to find that the door opened out onto a beach, just a few feet above the water's edge. At the end of the passageway had been built a small dock; tied to the dock was a boat. Now you will probably wonder what it was all about. So did Jack and Jane, but they didn't have to wonder long. When everybody had reached the dock, Prince Charles shut the door. The children noticed that it had been cleverly covered with vines and surrounded by bushes that it could not be seen from the outside.

"I suppose you are wondering why we have this secret road away from the house," said Prince Charles. "Well, I will tell you."

"The men who remained loyal to Princess May and myself have never stopped trying to restore us to our kingdom. Men who murdered my father know this, and so have tried many times to put the Princess and myself out of the way. Always have their attempts been discovered before they were able to carry them out. So far they have not reached our house. There is always a chance, though, that they may be successful some time in finding us, and then we would have to flee for our lives. If they ever do find our house we can easily escape by slipping through the passage-way, climbing in the boat and rowing away."

The children were breathless with excitement when the Princess finished telling them about his enemies.

"What if they should come while you are here?" asked Jack. The Prince laughed and so did Princess May and Lady Jane and Captain Bruce.

"Oh, I don't think there is any danger of that," said the Prince, "but you little folks have had enough excitement for a day, so I think we had better go back to the house."

When they started back Jane suddenly asked, "Where in the world is Booth?" Then everybody realized they hadn't seen him for a long time. "He's always been in the room between here and the courtroom upstairs," said Prince Charles.

However, no Booth was to be seen when they walked back through the passageway into the cellar and climbed the stairway to the upper part of the house. But when Prince Charles opened the secret door there was Booth sitting in front of it, feeling awfully blue, just like any little dog who had been left behind.

When they noticed the downstairs Princess May reached out a big strong arm and caught him, and urged her visitors to remain in the cottage over night. Lady Jane thought that the children needed a good night's rest and so consented to stay. Little did she know that the children would get practically no sleep that night, but I will tell you why tomorrow.

Dinner Stories

Senator Harding of Ohio was speaking about patriotism. "We hear a great deal of talk about it, but I'm afraid in a great many cases these so-called patriots are very much like the French who were entertaining her beau, back home on furlough."

"He was relating some of his thrilling experiences and remarked: 'We were having a terrible time until the French brought up their 75's.'"

"Isn't that splendid," she cried, "that men of that age should be in the fight!"

A. E. Thomas, the playwright, at the Authors' league dinner, told this story:

I met an English gentleman who said that he was very puzzled by American methods of pronunciation.

"Now, look at the way you pronounce 'Get-it'!"

IN DEFENSE

It is, of course, the accepted thing to preach against the folly of harboring dislikes and hates.

There are many perfectly good arguments against dislikes, besides the moral argument. For one thing, they take so much out of you.

Again, when you actively dislike a person you are apt to dignify him by talking and thinking about him instead of ignoring him.

But against these perfectly good arguments there is to be said for dislikes and hates—they are, to many people, an inexpensive way (financially I mean) of getting a lot of fun.

Some people have a perfectly gorgeous time with pet hates.

Don't you know many people who have a perfectly gorgeous time over some pet hate? Some people think that they would be delighted if the obnoxious personality were removed from the face of the earth. As a matter of fact they would miss him much more than they would some of their friends.

I have in mind a certain man who is, in most ways, very well balanced. He has conceived an intense dislike for a rather silly woman who lives near him. This woman has a very consequential and illogical mind. She also has an almost childish reverence for anyone who is "in society" and talks perpetually about the fringes thereof. Most people recognize these weaknesses and accept her for what she is, not forgetting that she has good as well as bad qualities. Not so the man with hate. He has really made her quite a personage in the neighborhood by his distasteful of her presence and of everything she says.

While the subject of this article is a room with a pet hate, let us consider the social exigencies put him into a room with a pet hate.

And yet all the time I cannot help feeling that he enjoys his hate. He is always ready to talk of her when any one brings the subject up and I never saw him more perfectly delighted than when, after the conversation with the lady in question, new comers to the neighborhood declared he was a convert to the cult. His life is at times a bit monotonous and that of his enemy is a bit exciting.

And yet it's true and true not only of his hate but of many others. Why, I can remember even now how really sad I felt some time ago when my dog destroyed a perfectly good hat.

And yet it's true and true not only of his hate but of many others. Why, I can remember even now how really sad I felt some time ago when my dog destroyed a perfectly good hat.

How To Be Sure of a Comfortable and Economical Home

Flaxlinum Keeps Your House Cool in Summer, Warm in Winter and Saves One-third of Your Coal Bills

HOMES today aren't built in the haphazard way of a generation ago. People plan more carefully now. They leave less to chance. More attention is given to details.

And, while they figure more closely, they figure more wisely. People have learned that the cost of "operating" a house has an important bearing on their investment.

The largest single cost in operating a house is the coal bill. If a few dollars added to the original cost of a house makes a big cut in the coal bill it is decidedly a good investment.

That is what Flaxlinum does.

Cuts Coal Bills One-Third

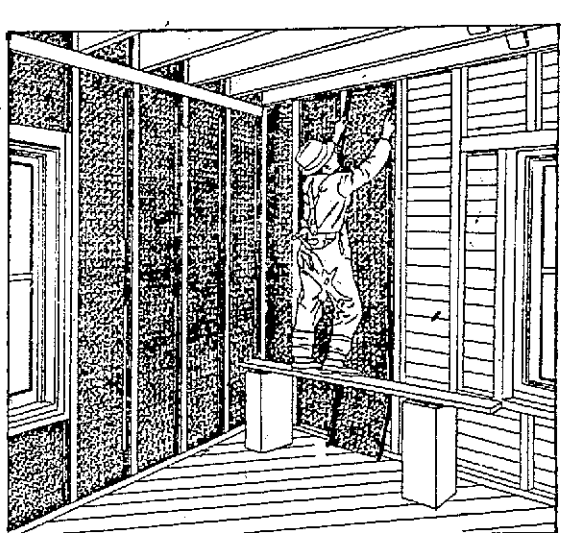

Home owners who have insulated their houses with Flaxlinum report that they have reduced their coal bills from 30% to 40%. At this saving Flaxlinum pays for itself in a few years—and then goes right on making the same saving year after year. No wonder these people say that if they were going to build again they couldn't afford not to use Flaxlinum.

Flaxlinum saves coal because it keeps the cold from passing through the walls into the house. And by the same token it stops the heat of summer from coming in. A house insulated with Flaxlinum is from ten to fifteen degrees cooler in summer than one that is not.

Flaxlinum has been used in houses for the last eight years so it has passed beyond the experimental stage. It has proved that it is a necessity for builders who want a comfortable, economical home.

Insulating houses with Flaxlinum is simply applying the principle of modern refrigeration to the building of homes. It has for years been used in insulating the best refrigerators and refrigerator cars. Nothing could more forcibly demonstrate its efficiency.

Numerous tests have proved that a layer of Flaxlinum one-half inch thick, the thickness in which it is ordinarily used in house construction, is equivalent in heat and cold resistance to thirty thicknesses of building paper or to four inches of back plaster.

Flaxlinum is flanged to fit between the studding in the side walls. No special framing or construction is required. You can use Flaxlinum even if the framework of your house is already up. It can be applied quickly and easily by anyone who can drive a nail.

When Flaxlinum is in place it forms double air spaces in the walls. This method of applying an insulating material has proved most efficient in house insulation.

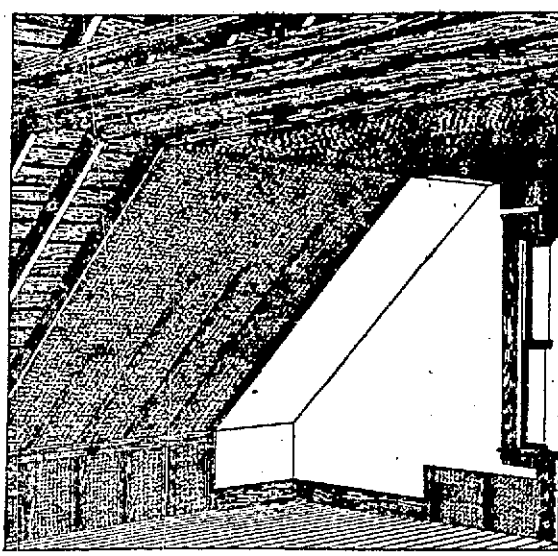

Roof insulation is as important as wall insulation, for the roof presents the greatest surface to the sun and comes under the direct heat of the sun's rays. And in winter more heat escapes through the roof than any other part of the house.

Flaxlinum for Farm Buildings

Farmers have learned that warm farm buildings increase their profits. Hens lay more eggs in a warm poultry house; and at the season when prices are highest. Warm hog houses mean earlier and healthier pigs. Warm dairy barns mean more milk. Flaxlinum is also used for ice houses and all kinds of fruit and vegetable storage houses. It is rat and vermin proof.

Flaxlinum is sold by leading building material dealers everywhere. It is specified by the best architects and endorsed by reputable contractors. If you do not know the name of your nearest Flaxlinum dealer, write us.

Free sample and literature sent on request. In writing please state what kind of building you are interested in.

This illustration shows the application of Flaxlinum in roof insulation in story-and-a-half house. This method of insulation prevents heat escaping through the roof in winter, and keeps the heat from coming in, in summer. Working application drawings of this and other methods of roof insulation on request.

Janes Will Take On All-American Giants, Sunday

By George McManus

CRODAN, NEW PITCHER, IS SIGNED TO BEAT NEGROES

By KID BIFF
With a new pitcher on deck, the Lawrence lunch Janes will bump against the All-American Giants at the fair grounds here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Giants, a colored nine, hail from northern Illinois and are boasting of record of not having lost a game this year.

George Crodan, slubster who made such a creditable showing when he pitched for the old Janesville Cardinals here two years ago, has been signed up by Manager James A. Murphy to pitch against the Giants, Sunday.

Crodan, who hails from Walworth, has just been released from the navy after 18 months' service and is in tip-top condition to play ball.

Local fans who hitherto had been lukewarm towards supporting the Janes are now back of it strong, the signing of Crodan. He was something of a favorite here when he pitched for the Cardinals when Janesville was in the Central State league in 1917.

He has a good assortment of bend-ers and has a fast ball that can't be seen. His arm has not been ailing during the past year. He has kept in condition pitching in the navy and feels ready to face the best of them.

Mostly Rockford Negroes. The strength of the Giants is practically an unknown quantity around here as they have been playing all their games in Illinois this year. Most of their players are from Rockford, but they have taken reinforcements from Elgin and Freeport during the last three weeks and are now a powerful nine.

The Janes will present the same line-up Sunday with the exception of Crodan, the only new man. Pierce, the Indians' pitcher, who runs the Indians in Albany when he is not playing baseball, will cover short with Roy Bergman, the long-geared Madison youth, on first. Both these men are fast fielders and wield wicks.

Miller, fourth ward star, and one of the best men in the line-up, will be back at the keystone position Sunday. Dopp will hold down third, making about the fastest infield available. These two men are also good hitters. Dopp got two singles off Lentz, Friday, while Miller nailed one of Olson's round-house out for a safe drive in the game against Edgerton a week ago.

Some More Sluggers
With Viney in left, Kukuks in center, and Rice in right, the garden will be well taken care of and it is a sure bet that nothing will get through these men. All are baseball players from the toes up and can hit like wild men.

Manager Murphy is making arrangements to secure Reno Koch to umpire the game. Owing to general dissatisfaction with umpires who have officiated in past games, Murphy wants to lay his hands on Koch, who is considered one of the fairest and squarest umpires around here. With Koch on the job both teams are assured of a square deal.

The Janes will practice tonight and Thursday night at the fair grounds in preparation for the game Sunday. Every man must be out.

JUNIOR STARS BEAT SECOND WARD CUBS

The Junior All-Stars climbed up another notch in their race for the junior championship of the city when they defeated the Second Ward Cubs 10 to 2 at the second ward diamond Sunday afternoon. Three two-baggers by J. Leary, McCluskey and Gokey, and a home-run by R. Leary, all collected off Raubacher, contributed to the downfall of the Cubs.

Raubacher struck out 14 men and was touched for a total of 14 swats. Dawson, pitching for the Junior Stars, struck out 17 men and allowed only 5 hits. Harnery and Logemann with two hits apiece starred for the Cubs.

The line-ups:
Jr. All-Stars—R. Leary 1b, Arbocker 2b, Dickerson 3b, Dawson 4b, Leary 5b, McCluskey cf, Litney lf, Gokey 3b, Cullen ss.
Cubs—McDermott c, Raubacher p, Gardner ss, Flannery 1b, Thorman 2b, Logemann 3b, Leary lf, Brown cf, Hanowell if.

The young stars will play the Edgerton Outlaws at Edgerton Sunday.

Clerk at $400 Yearly Refuses Increase in Pay

Boston, June 3.—Interest in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts has mounted since the announcement of the salary of the clerk, Mr. Story. He is a rare gentleman. He distinctly refuses an increase in salary. He is a city employee. Other city employees cannot understand it.

He is a clerk to the Boston Art Commission at $400 a year. A budget session of the city council developed the startling, almost disquieting, information to the council that Mr. Story is perfectly satisfied with $400. The city clerk of the Museum of Fine Arts receives additional salary of from $800 to $900.

Even so, why refuse more money, especially city money? That's what worries the political mind.

WAMBY'S SWATTING LEAGUE SENSATION

Bill Wambaganss, quiet second baseman of the Indians, looms up as the batting sensation of the year just now. Wamby was never suspected of being a slugger bold until he got started a few weeks ago and in two weeks was hitting at a .400 clip, leading the league. Although he slipped below .400 he continued to lead the circuit. Unless he slumps he'll be among the leaders for some time.

Earl Cooper, Noted Auto Racing Driver, to Open First Airplane Agency

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
San Francisco, June 3.—The first exclusive airplane agency on the Pacific coast will be opened here in a few weeks by Earl Cooper, the noted racing driver, who has just closed a contract with the United Aircraft Engineering Corporation of New York for a shipment of planes, six of which are now being hurried west by express, to be followed by six more. Cooper's initial order totals more than $80,000.

A sales staff is being organized and competent instructors, most of whom will probably be former aviators, recently discharged from the service, will be engaged to instruct purchasers in the art of flying.

A site suitable for starting and landing point and upon which a structure can be erected to house a large number of airplanes will be selected shortly.

The Canadian Curtiss, J. N., with a 30 horsepower motor, capable of a speed of 70 miles per hour and having a four-hour fuel capacity, is the first type of machine which will be seen here. It carries two passengers in an emergency three can be loaded into it with safety. The landing speed is 35 miles per hour. The weight of the machine is 1,300 pounds when empty.

STATE CAPITOL HAS LARGE WELCOME SIGN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, June 3.—The largest electric sign in any public building in the world has just been completed on Wisconsin's new state capitol building at Madison.

The sign is 8 feet high, completely circles the dome of the capitol, and measures 308 feet in circumference. 2,850 red lights will be used to illuminate this sign which can be seen 10 miles away. The letters which are 6 feet high. The sign itself is 235 feet from the ground.

The sign reads as follows: "Wisconsin Welcomes Her Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, Nurses. M. F. Blumenfeld, superintendent of public property, conceived the idea in connection with the celebration which is being staged in Madison for all of the returned soldiers, sailors, and marines, which is to be given June 12.

Nearly 2500 feet of lumber was used in this sign, 10 gross of screws, 700 bolts. In order to get this lumber up to the upper rotunda of this, the second highest dome in the United States, it is necessary to have two lifts by pulley and two lifts hand over hand. The work entailed in making, erecting and placing this sign in position was the work entirely of carpenters, painters and electricians employed in the Wisconsin state capitol.

Aged Woman Subscribes Life's Savings Through Child Loan Workers

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
San Francisco, June 3.—The best story here in the victory liberty loan drive was found by San Francisco's school children. It is filled with heart throbs and self-sacrifice. A party of children visited a white-haired woman who told them that she was 85 years old her last birthday. They asked her if she would buy some victory notes. She said she might if the children would bring their principal and teacher to her home. They did. Then the old woman led the little party through her house and out into the back yard. From dark corners, under planks in the floor, up in the attic, from burial places in the back yard she gathered her savings of years hidden for safe keeping. The treasury totaled $1,600 in old worn bills, grimy gold pieces and tarnished silver. She turned over every penny to the children, and the 41 per cent on her victory note will be the first she ever received.

Sentences Himself to Pay $50 to "Sa" Army

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
Chicago, June 3.—It's not often that a defendant is permitted to name his own fine and decide what shall be done with it—but such was the good fortune of Patrick O'Malley, politician and saloonist, recently arrested for accepting a bet on the races.

"What would you suggest in the way of a fine?" asked Judge Stewart. "I'll donate $50 to the Salvation Army," offered O'Malley. "So ordered," said the judge. "Case dismissed."

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

The recent move of Dave Robertson in refusing to join the Pirates, to which club he had been sold by the Giants, adds another chapter to the three-cornered deal which has interested the big league fans for many weeks. The latest bolt on the part of the Virginian is the direct result of the failure of the three-cornered deal planned by the Giants, Cardinals and Senators, to materialize, because of the opposition of Barney Dreyfuss. When Dreyfuss refused to waive on Robertson, so that Dave might be sent to Washington, "Doc" Lavan from Washington the Cardinals and Mike Gonzales from the Cardinals to the Giants, McGraw, Branch Rickey and Clark Griffith made new plans, in the formation of which they interested Dreyfuss. The new plan was calculated to bring about results similar to those aimed at in the original scheme and had a cash basis.

Griffith, under the new arrangement, was to sell Lavan to the Cardinals, Rickey was to be reimbursed by cash handed over by the Giants in exchange for Gonzales, and McGraw was to get back the amount paid for the Cuban catcher by selling Robertson to the Pirates. There wasn't a hitch in the negotiation of the first phases of the deal. Lavan waived out of the American league, was sold to the Cardinals and Gonzales was purchased by the Giants. The sale of Robertson was consummated and Dave promptly balked when informed of it. Robertson is determined to play in Washington and Griffith would like to have him, but Dreyfuss is determined that the only way the Virginian will get out of the league is by the route just taken by Davey.

Billy Southworth, slugging outfielder of the Pirates, has recovered from an attack of neuritis and is all ship-shape again. Southworth was a big sensation in the league last season. He slugged away all kinds of pitching, and everything looked the same to him. His bat broke up several games in favor of the Pirates, and when the season closed he was in a position to be considered when the time came to select the batting champion.

He had an average of .341, the highest compiled, but he took part in only 64 contests and the crown was awarded to Zack Wheat, who played all through the campaign and finished with a mark of .335. Besides being a batsman of considerable ability he has also showed up well as a fly chaser and those who saw him play last season were not slow to predict a great career on the diamond for him.

Eddie Cicotte is the oldest pitcher in the American league as regards continuous service, but he is getting away this year better than he did in his recent campaign. A year ago Eddie spring he is proving otherwise. Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, regards Clifford Heathcote so highly that he recently released Walter Cruise, hailed as a coming star two years ago, to make way for the sensational youngster in his outfield.

Gabby Street, the veteran catcher who brought back many scars from the battlefields of France, is catching regularly again for the Nashville club.

Sale Commences Wednesday Morning, June 4, at 9 O'clock.

For Prices Look For Ticket Marked Alteration Sale.

Owing to our large and growing Ready-to-Wear business, we have been compelled to expand to larger quarters. Our present space being wholly inadequate to handle satisfactory the large business that we are now enjoying in our Women's Ready-to-Wear Department. Little did we realize that when we opened this store four years ago that our Ready-to-Wear business would grow so fast and to such a large proportion that it would necessitate a change of this kind in so short a period. But it has been proven conclusively; and now after alterations have been fully completed our stock of READY-TO-WEAR GARMENTS, including Coats, Suits, Dresses, Waists, Skirts, Petticoats, Muslin Underwear, Silk Underwear, and Corsets, will be carried on the 2nd floor; this will give these various lines about 5 times the room they now occupy, involving 9000 sq. feet of floor space. Our aim is to make this the largest and most attractive garment section in Southern Wisconsin. Up-to-date fixtures, Rest Rooms, Lavatories, Elevators and large easy stairs will be installed. Nothing will be left undone to make this spacious quarters restful, exclusive, and so attractive and home-like that you will find it a delightful place to shop.

The entire 1st floor will also undergo a complete change. The Mens' Clothing Department will be enlarged and installed with modern fixtures. Our office will be assigned to new and commodious quarters. The Shoe Department will also undergo a complete change. After all these changes have been made additional stock will be added to all departments, making this one of the largest and most complete department stores in the state.

Work Has Commenced--The Saws are Buzzling And The Hammers Are Knocking and we are in hopes by August 15th that we will be able to occupy these new quarters.

The 2nd floor will be opened up with an entirely new and complete stock of Women's, Misses' and Children's garments. Not one dollar's worth of the present stock do we intend moving up stairs, so it is up to us to dispose of all the stock we have on hand quickly. To do this everything will be marked down attractively low during the sale, so low that our efforts will be realized without a doubt.
